

Edgcomb Law Group Announces that Associate Courtney LeBoeuf Received the Green Associate Accreditation

™ March 2010

Edgcomb Law Group Associate Courtney LeBoeuf has received the Green Associate accreditation from the Green Building Certification Institute (GBCI). The U.S. Green Building Council's Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED®) professional credentialing program, administered through the GBCI, indicates professional excellence and a strong depth of knowledge and practical understanding of the LEED rating system.

Developed by the U.S. Green Building Council, the LEED green building certification system provides building developers, owners and operators a framework for identifying and implementing green building design, construction, operations and maintenance solutions.

Edgcomb Law Group attorneys can provide counsel on all aspects of the LEED certification process, including project planning, rating system selection, contract drafting and negotiations, credit interpretation requests and appeals, and risk management strategies. Edgcomb Law Group's Green Associates can also provide counsel regarding rapidly emerging Green Building regulations including San Francisco's Green Building Ordinance, California's Green Building Standards Code, and the Presidential Executive Order, signed on October 5, 2009, which sets numerous green requirements for the federal government.